BIG HARBOR JOBS ARE LET

Hawaiian Dredging Company
Low Bidder on Hilo and
Kahului Dredging

Two more big government contracts, amounting to approximately $125,000, were secured this morning by the Hawaiian Dredging Co. when proposals for dredging operations at Hilo and Kahului harbors were opened by Major W. P. Wooten, corps of engineers. While considerable figuring has to be done by the army engineers before the successful bidder is officially announced, it is practically certain that the Dillingham concern is low by a safe margin.

The work to be done at Hilo comprises the removal of about 115,000 cubic yards of silt and a channel into Kihuna bay. At Kahului about 87,000 yards must be dredged to complete the present plans of the government for the improvement of that harbor. The Hawaiian Dredging Co., under a former contract, has taken out 125,000 yards, and the new work will complete the job.

There were only two bidders on the dredging work at Hilo, which was opened at 11 o'clock this morning. The Hawaiian Dredging Co. submitted a bid of $125,000, and a second bid was received from the same company at 11:30 a. m. The bid was $125,000, and the work will be completed by the end of the year.

Another large contract for the dredging of the harbor at Kahului was won by the Hawaiian Dredging Co. The bid was $125,000, and the work will be completed by the end of the year.

SENATOR WARREN IS RE-ELECTED

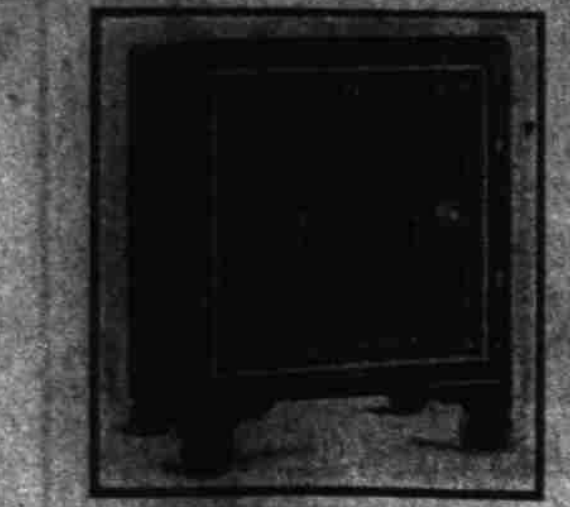

United States Senator Frank E. Warren has been re-elected, and the Wyoming delegation in Hawaii is jubilant. Senator Warren has many personal friends here. One of them is Col. Sam Parker, and a cable to Parker from Senator Clark of Wyoming brought the news to-day that Warren was successful last Tuesday. He has been the object of a bitter attack this time, in which Collier's has taken a prominent part.

THOROUGH CANVASS OF TERRITORIAL HISTORIES

Resignation of Governor Not Expected as Matter of Course

There is no precedent for Gov. Frear to tender his resignation to Woodrow Wilson when the latter takes office.

In fact, the precedent is just the other way. Territorial governors have served their terms regardless of whether or not their political faith differed from that of the president.

If President Wilson observes precedent, he is not by any means certain to remove Gov. Frear.

These interesting facts were brought out by Prof. Howard M. Ballou of the College of Hawaii, who is secretary of the Progressive Party of Hawaii. In a communication to this paper, Prof. Ballou sets forth the results of a thorough canvass of the situation in regard to precedents. He says:

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin, Dear Sir:—Across the propriety of Gov. Frear's tendering his resignation to President Wilson on March 4, I have secured from the Secretary of State of the states of Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and Arkansas, lists of the dates of the resignations of their governors while territorial, and contrary to the prevailing expectation here, I find in these states no precedents for a governor tendering his resignation to an incoming President. Data from Arizona and New Mexico was not obtainable at their capitals, nor have I heard from Utah.

It will be remembered that President Arthur (Republican) was succeeded by President Cleveland (Democrat) on March 3, 1885, who in turn was succeeded by President Harrison (Republican) on March 4, 1889, while Cleveland again became President in 1893, at which time all the northern territories had become states.

In the Territory of Dakota, Gov. Wm. A. Howard, appointed in 1878, died in office April 10, 1880. Nehemiah G. Ordway became Governor in the summer of 1880, and continued in office till the summer of 1884. He was succeeded by Gilbert A. Pierce, a Republican, who voluntarily resigned in the spring of 1887 (two years after Cleveland had become President) because he did not care longer to serve surrounded by hostile Democrats appointed by President Cleveland. He was followed by Louis K. Church, a Democrat, who served from 1887 to 1889, being promptly removed by President Harrison, immediately after his inauguration in March, 1889. His successor, Arthur C. Mellett, remained as governor a few months till

METZGER MAKES GREAT RUN FOR SENATE FROM HAWAII

First Detailed News of Election by Precincts on Big Island

[Special Star-Bulletin Telegram] HILLO, HAWAII, Nov. 8.—D. Metzger, Kuhio and Sam Pua were the three high men on the tickets voted by the electors on this island of Tuesday, and of these three Metzger made by far the best showing when Davies came to East Hawaii. His total tally for 186 votes for the First District, 178 votes for the Second District, and 178 votes for the Third District, which has never been as high as this before. Metzger's record for the island of Hawaii is 178 votes, which is a record for any candidate for the Senate. CHARLEY HUSTACE CONFESSES HE SPENT $495 ON CAMPAIGN

It cost Charley Hustace just $497 to run third for mayor at the polls last Tuesday. Hustace has filed a sworn statement in the city clerk's office, showing the following expense account: Nomination fee, $25.00; Advertising, $75.00; Traveling expenses, $150.00; Printing, $125.00; Incidentals, $18.00. Total, $497.00. Under the law the candidates must file statements of their campaign expenses within twenty days, and both the city clerk and Secretary Mott-Smith are taking the statements now. George W. Smith admits that he lost out for city treasurer with an out-

World's News

Cardinal Farley and suite is coming west to visit and inspect the Catholic churches on the coast. He has reached Salt Lake City. Mrs. Jean McComas, beautiful wife of a millionaire mine-owner in Mexico, who shot herself in San Francisco after a quarrel with her husband, is dead. The last of the famous "graft" cases of San Francisco, eleven indictments against Louis Glass, have been wiped off the calendar by Judge Lawlor. Sir Thomas Lipton will arrive in San Francisco on Nov. 10th to confer with exposition officials and be entertained by the yacht club. Eleanor Gates, a California writer and wife of Richard Tully, who wrote "The Bird of Paradise," a Hawaiian play, has had a play accepted in New York. It is a fantastic play called "The Poor Little Rich Girl." For the week ended at noon today, less one day on for the election, the transactions on the stock exchange amounted to $54,337,374, against $59,350 for the full week ended the same hour last week, or a decrease of $5,012,626. Dividends announced today amount to $35,000, being: Wailuku Sugar Co. $1.50, or $45,000; Hutchinson Sugar Plantation Co. 20 cents, or $20,000; Paauhau Sugar Plantation Co. 20 cents, or $20,000.
